Twenty-fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time

The Gospel for this weekend, the parable of The Workers in the Vineyard, has for many years been particularly special to me. It was in 1988 that Pope St. John Paul II wrote an exhortation called Christifidelis Laici, on the vocation and mission of the Lay Faithful in the Church and in the World. And this weekend’s Gospel passage from St. Matthew served as the backdrop for the pope’s opening meditation in that letter. Several times, Pope St. John Paul II returned to the landowner’s words to those he saw standing idle; “you too go into the vineyard”. Summing up this opening meditation he offered a challenge; “It is not permissible to anyone to stand idle!” I can’t begin to tell you how much that meditation resonated with me, reading it years before any consideration of diaconal formation. I could not have foreseen what would lie ahead, but I felt deep down the truth of those words. It was, as I say, a personal challenge, but of course it is a message and challenge for everyone who would claim to be a follower of Christ. As you know, our pilgrims left for Spain this past Monday. And it is our confident hope and prayer that this pilgrimage will result in graces and blessings, not only for the pilgrims but for our entire faith community as we seek to address the challenges of discipleship and what that might mean for each of us in our own lives. You know, both pilgrimages and vacations are usually destination oriented. But they differ in that we usually think of vacation as time away from work and routine, often to a “someplace”. A pilgrimage on the other hand, is a destination toward a “someone”. And for us, that someone is Jesus Christ. Another aspect of a pilgrimage is that although only a limited number of people actually make the journey, it benefits the entire faith community. There are special graces for the pilgrims, and those graces and blesses are spread to our entire parish community. During this pilgrimage, Masses will be offered daily, and intercessory prayer intentions, spoken or unspoken, will accompany the pilgrims. They will bring back and share their experiences with us, and I for one will want to know what food in Spain is like. Please continue to pray for them, both for safe travel and return, and for the special graces we as their supporting faith community will receive through the efforts of their journey. Meanwhile, the work of building up the kingdom continues here at home. School has begun, and this coming Wednesday, our CCD program. A good crowd enjoyed an evening of bingo and fellowship this past Tuesday, and work is coming along nicely on the addition at St. Joseph’s in Boyd. As we move now from maintenance to mission, let us respond to those words of Jesus Christ the vineyard owner, “You too, go into the vineyard”. And consider in the depths of our hearts the challenge delivered by Pope St. John Paul II; “It is not permissible for anyone to stand idle!”

In Christ,

Deacon Ned

Source—Stewardship Reflections by Catholic Stewardship
— September 20, 2026 —
Twenty-Fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time

In our First Reading from Isaiah, the Lord declares, “My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways my ways.” As disciples, we are called to see life from God’s perspective and to use our time, talents, and treasure with eternity in mind. This is the heart of stewardship: recognizing that everything we have is a gift from God and is meant to serve His mission.

In today’s Gospel, Jesus shares the parable of the workers in the vineyard. Some labor all day, while others are called only near the end, yet each receives the same wage. Rather than comparing ourselves to others, we are invited to rejoice in God’s generosity and remember the privilege of being called to work in His vineyard.

When we embrace stewardship as a way of life, we do more than give; we participate in God’s mission. We help carry forward the Gospel, strengthen our parish community, and share Christ’s love with others.

May we thank God each day for calling us to share in His mission and respond generously as faithful stewards.
