Twenty-Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time

As you read this, hopefully our pilgrims have returned, or are at least well on their way. They will have much to share with us. Last weekend, due to weather problems and flight cancellations, our scheduled priest from Cross Catholic Ministries, Fr. Augustine Temu, was not able to be here for the Saturday Mass. Unfortunately, those attending the 4pm Saturday Mass were not able to hear his mission appeal message. Fr. Augustine and I were in contact throughout the day on Saturday, but when I first called him at 9am he was still sitting in Chicago at the airport, unsure when his rescheduled flight would leave. I immediately contacted Fr. Daniel Sedlacek, the head of our deanery to alert him of the situation. He graciously assured me that if need be, he himself would be available to come and celebrate the Mass. So that is what happened on Saturday. I was not able to meet Fr. Augustine until around 10:30pm Saturday evening to help him get settled in to the rectory for the night. Needless to say, he'd had a rough miserable day, and very much enjoyed the noon dinner he was treated to on Sunday. You know, reflecting on how this all worked out, I can't help but feel a sense of gratitude for the myriad of ways that the Church comes together as needs arise. Sometimes we get a little impatient or frustrated, but Holy Mother Church asks us to be patient and to persevere. You know, our All Saints Parish is part of the Chippewa Falls deanery of Catholic parishes, and all the deaneries in our diocese are under one umbrella. But it takes a lot of love and coordination to keep things running. It is important to remind ourselves that we are not an island unto ourselves, and that we are one body, dependent upon each other, as part of the Church, the Mystical Body of Christ. I myself take great comfort in the fact that I don't have to re-invent the wheel, so to speak. That even for situations like last weekend, we have procedures in place to cover our backs and provide for us. I remember a comment years ago from a prominent elder from a local protestant congregation. A devout man, he said, "I wish we did things like you Catholics do." I asked him what he meant. He said "well, when we need a replacement our community has to put out a call. But we're on our own, and it can take well over a year before the situation is resolved and we have someone." I think sometimes we have a tendency to lose sight of how fortunate we are, and the broad strokes the Church must paint with all the work that goes on ceaselessly to care for its flock. We could easily fall into a "parochial" mentality. That is, focusing only upon what we see in front of us, and our own immediate surroundings.

Father Augustine's presence this past weekend was a reminder to keep our hearts open to the broader vision, a vision that calls us all to mission in some form, both in our own community, and our brothers and sisters in need beyond. That as Pope St. Paul VI wrote many years ago, "The Church not only has a mission, it is missionary by nature." And this mission, this broader vision, is the sanctification and salvation of the world. Paraphrasing St. Mother Theresa, if we love we will succeed, because authentic love never fails! For those of you who were unable to hear the message of Fr. Augustine or need more information, we will continue to have flyers available in our churches.

In Christ,

Deacon Ned

Source—Stewardship Reflections by Catholic Stewardship
— September 27, 2026 —
Twenty-Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time

As Christian stewards, we are called to a high and holy standard: to live as disciples of Christ every day, in every circumstance, and with every person the Lord places in our path. This call is not merely about doing more; it is about allowing our hearts, choices, and actions to be shaped by God's will so that our lives bear fruit for His mission.

In today’s Gospel, Jesus tells the parable of two sons whose father asks them to work in his vineyard. One son says “yes” but does not follow through. The other first says “no,” but later changes his mind and goes. The lesson is both challenging and hopeful: what matters to God is not empty words but a heart that turns back to Him and a life that responds.

For us as Christian stewards, this is deeply consoling. We may not always respond perfectly to God’s call. At times, the demands of discipleship, service, generosity, forgiveness, or sacrifice may feel too difficult. Yet God does not require perfection before inviting us into His work. He asks for hearts willing to be changed.

We can be honest with God even when we struggle. He already knows our fears, reluctance, and weakness. But when we remain in relationship with Him, even if our prayer is simply, “Lord, I am not sure I can,” He gives us the grace to take the next faithful step.

This is the stewardship way of life: saying yes to God not only with our words but also with our time, talents, treasure, and daily choices. Even small steps of obedience can serve Christ's mission when offered with a willing heart. Our merciful Father continues to invite us into His vineyard, and by His grace, we can respond.
